Week 4 Term 4 Thursday 4 November 2010

Mid Term Assembly Next Friday 12 November

The end of the term is shaping up as another very busy one. Be sure to find out what is happening by coming to our mid term assembly next week. You will be entertained and informed in a most impressive fashion. Proceedings will start at 12 noon sharp.

Surveys

With one day to go, it looks as though all surveys will be returned for the third straight year. Well done everyone. Your impressions on how we are going at school are greatly appreciated.

The draw for the survey return will happen after 2pm tomorrow.

Photos

Just a reminder that these occur next Friday. Please return orders if you have not already done so. Children should wear full sports uniform in an effort to make the very best impression. Donna Davidson will arrive first thing on Friday morning.

Woolbrook Multicultural Day

Our annual multicultural day, involving the other schools in the cluster, is on again on Thursday 18 November. We currently have visitors representing Vietnam and Pakistan attending.

The day will be a very relaxed affair, with our visitors simply telling the children about themselves and the countries they represent.

Please come along, listen in and learn a thing or two about the world outside Woolbrook.

Schools' Spectacular

The countdown is on. Preparations are largely completed for the excursion to this major event. The children involved have polished their marimba repertoire and excitement is growing.

Ruby Mc, Sophie, Bonnie and Charlie will be joining the children from Kentucky School for their bus trip to Sydney on Wednesday 24 of this month. They will return on Monday 29.

For those participating an itinerary is attached. Permission notes to go to Sydney, will be sent home tomorrow or Monday.

These children will be transported to Kentucky School by Janelle (or Belinda in her absence) at 11am on Monday to help refine the tunes they have learnt. They are expected to return around lunch time.

Girls Are Better Than Boys

I think girls are better than boys. There are a number of reasons why.

Boys show off so girls will like them. Boys never put deodorant on so they smell bad. Boys think that girls cannot do what they do like ride motorbikes and quads.

That's why I think girls are better than boys.

Sometimes I wish I was a boy though.

Boys Are Better Than Girls

Boys are better than girls because boys are better at sport. Most girls spend too much time in the toilet talking. They fiddle around with their hair.

Girls complain about everything. Girls show off for boys. Boys are stronger than girls. Girls' deodorant stinks but boys' deodorant doesn't.

Student of The Week

Bonnie Brattan

When someone simply does outstanding work most of the time, it can be easy to overlook them. This tends to happen with Bon. She is our award winner for this week for a range of things but especially for her consistently outstanding writing efforts. She is a very talented writer indeed. Well done Bon.
